(d) The neutral points of the high pressure system may, with the approval of the Government of Madras and the concurrence of the Telegraph Authority and the railways, be connected to earth

Provided always that it shall be lawful for the Government of Madras from time to time to issue, with due regard to the expense involved and, to the effect upon the commercial prospects of the undertaking, regulations dealing with the above systems of supply or to authorize, subject to such limitations and conditions as shall be prescribed in writing by the Government, other systems of supply to be adopted for the purpose of this licence.

(2) The feeders, distributing mains and service lines may be overhead or underground in whole or in part, and shall be erected, constructed and maintained by the licensees in strict conformity with the Act and the rules thereunder and the following provisions:—

(d) In any street or its direct continuation in which overhead electric lines are run, such lines shall, where possible, be run on one side only.

(e) Where overhead mains carrying alternating current are used, due precautions shall be taken by the licensees to avoid any possible interference with the adjacent telegraph or telephone circuits due to inductive effects.

(f) For the purpose of rule 61 of the Indian Electricity Rules 1922, the maximum wind pressure shall be taken as 12 lb. per square foot.

7. Compulsory works.—(a) The licensees shall lay down suitable and sufficient feeders and distributing mains and shall install the necessary transformers and control equipment to the satisfaction of the Government of Madras for the purpose of supplying electric energy throughout such streets or parts of streets as are mentioned in the first annexure and as indicated in black on the deposited map. In the case of difference between the description in the first annexure and as indicated on the deposited map, the latter shall prevail. The licensees shall commence to execute the works aforesaid in sufficient time so as to complete them before 1st October 1932.

(b) The length of the trenches to be opened at any one time on any street repairable by the Government of Madras and the period for which they may remain open shall be determined from time to time by the Government of Madras. When any street is crossed, not more than half the width of such street shall, without the specific authority in writing of the Government of Madras as aforesaid, be closed for traffic.

No. 11 of 1931.—Madras Commercial Crops Markets 117

Bills to be introduced in the Council of the Governor of Fort St. George assembled for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations.

Under rule 18 of the Madras Legislative Council Rules, the following Bills, together with the Statements of Objects and Reasons, are published for general information :—

BILL No. 9 OF 1931.

A Bill to amend the Madras Suppression of Immoral Traffic Act, 1930, for certain purposes.

Madras Act V of 1930.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Madras Suppression of Immoral Traffic Act, 1930, for the purposes hereinafter appearing ;

AND WHEREAS the previous sanction of the Governor-General has been obtained to the passing of this Act ; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called the Madras Suppression of Immoral Traffic (Amendment) Act, 1931.

Substitution of new sections for sections 1 and 2 of Madras Act V of 1930.

2. For sections (1) and (2) of the Madras Suppression of Immoral Traffic Act, 1930 (hereinafter referred to as the said Act), the following sections shall be substituted, namely :—

Short title.

"1. This Act may be called "The Madras Suppression of Immoral Traffic Act, 1930."

Extent and commencement.

"2. The Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the Fort St. George Gazette, apply all or any of the provisions of this Act to the whole or any portion of the Presidency of Madras from such date as may be specified in the notification and may cancel or modify any such notification."

Amendment of section 6, Madras Act V of 1930.

3. In sub-section (ii) of section 6 of the said Act, for the words and figures "before a Juvenile Court constituted under section 36 of the Madras Children Act, 1920", the words and figures "before a court established under sub-section (1) of section 36 of the Madras Children Act, 1920, or where no such court has been established, before a court sitting in the manner specified in sub-section (2) of that section" shall be substituted. Madras Act IV of 1920.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Madras Suppression of Immoral Traffic Act, 1930 (Act V of 1930), has not yet been brought into force because the machinery postulated in the Act, i.e., Juvenile Courts and Rescue Homes, have not been established. The Act as at present standing applies as a whole to the Presidency as a whole and contains no provision enabling the Local Government to apply it either in part or to selected areas where a Juvenile Court and a suitable Rescue Home are already in existence. To remedy this situation it is proposed to amend the Act as shown above in order to enable the Local Government—

(1) to bring it into force at once in selected areas and to extend it gradually to other areas as circumstances permit,

(2) to bring into force such of its provisions as may be practicable in any particular area.

24th July 1931. MAHOMED USMAN.

BILL No. 10 OF 1931.

A Bill to amend the Madras Motor Vehicles Taxation Act, 1931, for a certain purpose.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Madras Motor Vehicles Taxation Act, 1931, for the purpose hereinafter appearing; Madras Act III of 1931.

AND WHEREAS the previous sanction of the Governor-General has been obtained to the passing of this Act; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title. 1. This Act may be called the Madras Motor Vehicles Taxation (Amendment) Act, 1931.

Amendment of section 2, Madras Act III of 1931. 2. (1) In clause (ii) of section 2 of the Madras Motor Vehicles Taxation Act, 1931, hereinafter referred to as the said Act after the words "a district board" the words "or a cantonment authority" shall be inserted.

(2) The said Act shall be read and construed as if the amendment hereby enacted had formed part of the said Act from its commencement.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The object of the Bill is to include a cantonment authority within the definition of the term 'local body' given in section 2 of the Madras Motor Vehicles Taxation Act, 1931, and thereby make it possible for the cantonment authority to participate in the proceeds of the provincial tax on motor vehicles levied under the said Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Indian Cotton Committee of 1917–18 drew attention to the necessity of better provision for the marketing of cotton and kapas by growers, and pointed out the advantages of the Berar system of cotton markets as leading to better prices, fairer weighments and the prevention of illegal deductions. They held that the establishment of open cotton markets of this nature would benefit the grower and indirectly the cotton trade generally. In 1919 the Tiruppur Municipal Council, at the instance of the Coimbatore Cotton Marketing Association, wanted to establish a cotton market at Tiruppur on the lines of the Berar markets. The Council built some of the buildings required for the purpose and framed a set of by-laws on the lines of the Berar Cotton and Grain Markets Law of 1897 and the rules made thereunder. But these by-laws could not be approved by Government owing to want of proper legislative sanction and the scheme fell through. The Royal Commission on Agriculture has now recommended that in all provinces regulated markets should be established on the Berar system as modified by the Bombay legislation (Bombay Cotton Markets Act, 1927), that the system of regulated markets should be extended to products other than cotton, e.g., grain, oilseeds, etc., and that regulated markets should only be established under special provincial legislation.

2. The present Bill, which is purely an enabling measure, is based on the recommendations of the Royal Commission on Agriculture and the Bombay Cotton Markets Act, 1927. The Bill applies to the whole of the Presidency of Madras. By clause 3 power is taken to notify any place as a market for the sale of all or any commercial crops, the notification defining the limits of such market. Commercial crop has been defined to mean cotton, groundnut, tobacco and any other crop or grain which the Local Government may by notification in the Fort St George Gazette declare to be a commercial crop. Provision has also been made for local opinion being consulted before a market is established. On the establishment of a market a market committee is to be constituted including representatives of the growers of the commercial crop of the trade and of the local authority within whose jurisdiction the market is situated. Provision is to be made by rules for the composition of the market committee, the management of the market and the conduct of the affairs of the market by the committee; and the market committee is empowered to make by-laws to regulate business and the conditions of trading. Under clause 4 no private market for the purchase and sale of any commercial crop may be opened in or near places declared to be a market. Provision has also been made for disallowing trade allowances other than prescribed trade allowances and for penalties for violation of the substantive provisions of the Act, rules and by-laws. Clause 14 states when a market committee may be superseded and the consequences of its supersession.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Within a year of the coming into force of the Madras Estates Land Act, 1908, which is the first enactment in this Presidency defining the substantive rights of the landholders and ryots, some defects came to light and an Amending Act (Madras Act IV of 1909) was passed. Since then other defects and difficulties inseparable from a first attempt were disclosed by numerous decisions of the High Court and the Board of Revenue and other sources. The Government so far back as 1913 took up the subject of amending the Act and introduced a Bill in the Legislative Council. In 1914, four other private Bills were also introduced proposing amendments to the Act. Enquiries were started and all persons interested consulted, but before the Bills could be passed into law, the great war intervened and their further consideration had to be postponed till after its close. After the war ended, the subject was again taken up and it has been continuously under the consideration of Government ever since. In 1922 and again in 1924, large and representative committees were constituted for considering the amendments necessary to the Act. A Bill prepared by a subcommittee of the second of the above committees reached the Government in 1926 and the present Bill is very largely based upon it. The object of the more important of the amendments made is explained in the notes on clauses below.

A. Y. G. CAMPBELL

27*th July* 1931.

NOTES ON CLAUSES.

Clause 2 (section 3), Sub-clause (1).—There is no definition of the term "Collector" in the Act. It is considered desirable to insert a definition on the lines of the definition of the term "Revenue-officer" in section 3 (18).

Sub-clause (2).—It is considered undesirable to recognize anything less than a village as an estate and it is proposed to treat any land in an inam village the kudiyaram of which vests in the inamdar as his private land—vide the latter part of sub-clause (7) infra. The adoption of this principle makes it possible to replace the definition in section 3 (2) (d) by a shorter and simpler one. The definition adopted is the same as that occurring in the Madras Proprietary Estates Village Service Act, 1894.

Sub-clause (3).—Trees are now excluded from 'Holding' and the effect is that, though tree-tax was in some cases included in the assets on which the peishkash was calculated, the landholders are denied the advantages of the summary process provided by the Act for recovering this income. The policy of the Act is to discourage separate pattas for trees as distinguished from the land and to recognize or create rights in favour of the ryot to all trees in his holding subject to certain limitations. But where trees are held on patta independently of the land, it is necessary to allow the landholder to recover the rent of trees in the same way as the rent of the land.

Sub-clause (4).—A Full Bench of the High Court has decided (I.L.R., 44 Mad., 677) that a minor darimulla mamdar is a landholder within the meaning of the Act quite against the intention of the legislature. The Explanation is added to get rid of the effect of the decision.

Sub-clause (5).—The Bill makes special provision in the case of lankas—vide sub-clauses (6) and (9) (ii) of this clause and also new section 19-A inserted by clause 11. A definition of 'lanka' is obviously necessary.

Sub-clause (6).—It is considered expedient to include in the category of 'old waste' lankas declared by the District Collector to be ryoti land under the provisions of new section 19-A inserted by clause 11. A tenant that might apply under that section is exposed to the risk of being at once evicted by the landholder. Once it is declared ryoti, admission of any person, even of one who contributed no share whatever in its formation, would confer on him a right of occupancy. By declaring the land as old waste, a mean is cut to the advantage of both the landholder and the occupying tenant and might conduce to an amicable settlement of their relations. Clause (7) as worded in the existing Act would include non-ryoti waste which is contrary to the intention. This is avoided by substituting the words 'any other ryoti land' for the words 'any land in an estate not being private land.'

Sub-clause (7).—The addition proposed in new clause (a) now forms the proviso to section 185. It is in fact a separate mode of acquisition of private land and is out of place in section 185. The proper course is to include it in the definition of 'private land.'

The addition proposed in new clause (b) gives effect to the principle adopted in this Bill, viz., that if the kudivaram interest in any land vests in the mamdar, it should be treated as his private land, instead of being removed from the 'estate.' As already pointed out, this Bill does not recognize any area less than a village as an estate. Land which is merely surrendered or abandoned is not to be regarded as land in which the inamdar has acquired the kudivaram interest except where he has held it continuously for twelve years.

Sub-clause (8).—Rent paid for trees held apart from the land on which they stand has been included within the scope of the definition of 'rent.' It is also considered proper that forest fees should be included in the definition to permit of their being treated as rent for the material provisions of the Act including recovery by summary process. It has been made clear that charges for water taken by the ryot without the landholder's permission are also rent within the meaning of the definition. Some other verbal amendments have also been made.

Sub-clause (9) (i).—Tank-bunds and the beds and bunds of supply, drainage, surplus or irrigation channels stand on the same footing as tank-beds. Hence, all these beds and bunds have been included in clause (a), thereby removing them from the category of 'ryoti' lands.

Sub-clause (9) (ii).—This should be considered along with new section 19-A inserted by clause 11.

There is no specific provision in the Act regarding lanka lands. It is doubtful whether in all cases they would fall under the head of 'old waste.' The amendment now proposed brings the law into accord with actual practice. There are permanent lanka lands which are in no way distinguishable from ryoti lands, as they have been held by the same ryots for years on the same rent. In many, if not in the majority of cases, the occupancy right of such ryots has been recognized by the landholders. There are also lanka lands liable to material changes from a flood, in which no right of occupancy had hitherto been claimed or allowed. Lands of the latter description are always leased by auction for a term of years and resumed by the landholder at the end of the term. It is considered desirable that legislation should respect custom in this matter and provide that no occupancy right should be annexed to lands that are 'lankas proper', that is lankas liable to a change. The provision enabling the Collector on application to transfer lanka lands to the description of ryoti lands is based on the principle of section 180 (3) of the Bengal Tenancy Act.

Clause 3 (Section 4).—A person who without the permission of the landholder occupies ryoti land for twelve years acquires a right to it without any obligation to pay rent to the landholder while the liability of the latter to pay peshkush to the Government would remain unaffected. It is considered desirable to provide that such a person should acquire only the rights of a ryot and should be liable to pay rent to the landholder.

Clause 4 (Section 6).—The important changes introduced by this clause are

(a) the omission of the proviso to sub-section (1),

(b) the omission of sub-section (2),

(c) the expansion of the scope of sub-section (4) [renumbered as sub-section (3) by the Bill] so as to include within its scope horticultural and orchard land,

(d) the introduction of a new sub-section, viz., sub-section (4), and

(e) the omission of the Explanation to the present sub-section (6) and its re-enactment in substantially the same form elsewhere.

The reasons for the above changes are as follows:—

(a) It is difficult to see the use or effect of the proviso to sub-section (1).

(b) Sub-section (2) is unnecessary in view of the definitions of 'ryoti land' and 'old waste'.

(c) It is considered desirable that admission to horticultural or orchard land for raising a crop occasionally should not confer an occupancy right in such land any more than admission to forest land does in similar circumstances.

(d) The landholder who has acquired lands under section 186 should be allowed temporarily to let the lands for agricultural purposes before they are actually used for the purposes for which they were acquired and such letting should not confer any right of occupancy in the lands so let.

(e) The Explanation to sub-section (6) is inappropriate as an Explanation and has been placed as a separate section (vide Clause 6).

Clause 5 (New section 6*A*).—The new section corresponds to section 7 of the existing Act which, as it stands, would convey the idea that if a landholder does not reserve mining rights when admitting a ryot to any ryoti land, including old waste, the mining rights would vest in the ryot. But the intention generally is that mining rights are reserved for the landholder. Hence the change in language.

Clause 6 (Section 7).—See the last paragraph of the note under clause 4.

Clause 7 (Section 8).—One of the material changes here is the substitution of the words 'occupancy right . . . . . vests in the landholder otherwise than by inheritance' for the words 'the entire interests of the landholder and the occupancy ryot have become united by transfer, succession or otherwise' in sub-section (1). The case of the occupancy ryot acquiring the interests of the landholder is dealt with in new section 7 corresponding to the Explanation to sub-section (6) of the existing Act and is not therefore intended to be governed by section 8 (1). This explains part of the amendment. The amendment also enlarges the rights of the landholder in the case where he inherits the rights of a ryot in a holding. Present sub-section (4) gives the landholder a right to let a holding inherited by him on such terms as he pleases and to prevent the acquisition of occupancy rights therein only for a period of twelve years. The amendment made in sub-section (1) has the effect of permitting the landholder to hold it as an occupancy ryot as well as a landholder without any restriction in time.

Instead of excluding from the 'estate' lands in an inam village in which there is a merger of kudivaram and melvaram, such lands will hereafter be treated as the inamdar's private land—vide new proviso to sub-section (1). The object of the proviso is to avoid recognition of anything less than a village as an estate. The practical effect however will remain the same.

The substitution of the word 'vests' for the word 'transferred' in sub-section (2) effects a material change. In sub-section (2), reference to succession is found omitted, due probably to hurried drafting or inadvertence. Another material change in sub-section (2) is the substitution of the word 'co-landholder' for the words 'a person jointly interested in the land as a landholder'. The latter words do not necessarily convey the idea of joint interest with others who are co-landholders.

Lastly, section 8 (4) has been omitted as the first paragraph has spent itself by the lapse of twelve years from the date of passing of the Act and the second paragraph has been omitted in view of the amendment incorporated in new sub-section (1). The exception to section 8 has been omitted in view of the new proviso to sub-section (1).

Clause 8 (Section 12).—According to the decisions of the Calcutta High Court a tenant of a holding to which there are trees is entitled to cut them down but is not entitled to carry them away or make a profit of them. A decision of the Madras High Court has held the contrary. This clause is intended to prevent the Calcutta view being upheld at any time.

Clause 9 (Section 13).—This clause improves the language and makes it clear that the landholder will not be entitled to a higher rent on account of any improvement towards the cost of which he has not contributed.

Clause 10 (New section 17-A).—The section of the existing Act which corresponds to new section 17-A is section 43 of the Act. The proper place for that section is however considered to be after section 17. An amendment has been made in the section to provide for entry by landholders for necessary purposes other than the one mentioned in section 42. At the same time the right of entry has been restricted to "all reasonable times" instead of being capable of being exercised "at any time".

Clause 11 (New Sections 19, 19-A and 20).—Existing Section 19 is considered unnecessary as landholder, ryot, ryoti land and their relations have all been defined in the Act.

New Section 19.—The Collector has been empowered, on the application of the landholder or other person interested, to determine whether any specified land falls within the terms of any of the sub-clauses (a), (b), (c) or (d) of clause (16) of section 3 and to determine the customary rights in the user of such lands at the commencement of the Estates Land Act, that is to say, on 1st July 1908. This section is necessary to decide disputes which may arise in connexion with the question whether any specified land is a tank-bed, etc., or what the customary rights in the user of such land, are. It should be noted that sub-clause (a) of clause (16) of section 3 has been expanded so as to remove not only tank-beds but also the bunds of tanks and the beds and bunds of supply drainage, surplus or irrigation channels from the category of ryoti land.

New Section 19-A.—Please see sub-clauses (5) and (9) (ii) of clause 2 and the notes under those sub-clauses.

Section 20 (1) (a).—This empowers the District Collector to divert any land which is not required for the communal purpose for which it was originally reserved to some other communal purpose. If the land is not required for any communal purpose, the District Collector has been given power to convert the land into ryotwari land or into ryoti land, according as the reversionary rights in the land vest in the Government or in the landholder.

Section 20 (1) (b).—The first sentence corresponds to the first paragraph of existing section 20, which has been generalized so as to apply to all the lands mentioned in sub-clauses (a) and (b) of section 3 (16). The second sentence saves all the rights existing at the commencement of the Act in any of these lands. The corresponding portion of the existing Act, viz., the last paragraph of section 20 applies to tank-beds only. What was really intended to be effected by that paragraph is that customary rights of user should be saved and this has been given effect to. The inclusion of tank-beds, etc., in section 20, it may be noted, also enables the Collector to take eviction proceedings under section 21 in respect of encroachments on such beds.

Section 20 (2) provides for the acquisition of lands required for communal purposes and for the apportionment of the cost of such acquisition between the landholder, the ryot, the Government and the local authority or authorities concerned.

Clause 12 (Section 23).—The presumption laid down by section 185 as regards private land has been incorporated in section 23 as being the more appropriate place.

Clause 13 (Section 25).—The expression 'unless otherwise provided in this Act' is introduced as some of the provisions contained in section 6 are really exceptions to section 25.

It has further been made clear that premia may be paid in instalments.

Clauses 14, 15, 16 (ii) (a), 17, 18 and 20 (Sections 30, 31, 32, 35, 36 and 38).—It is considered desirable that Collectors should determine claims for enhancement or reduction of rent by means of applications instead of by suits and hence the changes.

Clause 16 (i) and (ii) (b) (Section 32).—The cost to the landholder and the ryot of maintaining the improvement has been included among the factors to which the Collector should have regard in determining the amount of enhancement. Provision has also been made for the landholder entering into a contract with the ryot before executing an improvement, as regards the amount of additional rent which he would have to pay on the improvement being completed. The improvement will of course have to be registered under the Act. The contract will be enforceable, only if the Collector is satisfied as to its reasonableness. And in determining whether the contract is reasonable or not, the Collector is to be guided by the considerations mentioned in sub-section (1) of section 32, except the last, viz., the existing rent and the ability of the land to bear a higher rent. It is considered that the ryot is the best judge of this and that the Collector need not adjudge a contract to be unreasonable merely on this ground

Clauses 18 and 21 (Sections 37 and 39).—In these clauses, changes consequential on the alteration of 'suits' into 'applications' have been made The word 'suit' has been retained in view of sections 37 and 39 to provide for suits that may have been disposed of under the present Act. An invidious distinction existing between enhancement (section 37) and reduction (section 39) of rent has also been removed. Under the Act as it stands, reduction should have been made on the specific ground of fall in prices while enhancement might have been made on any ground, not merely on the ground of a rise in prices. This distinction did not exist in the Bill as originally framed, but was introduced in the course of discussions in the Legislative Council on some non-official members expressing an apprehension that landholders would otherwise rush into Court for enhancement of rent. This apprehension has not in fact been realized Further, more than 22 years have elapsed since the Act was passed and it is now possible to ascertain whether an enhancement made within the last twenty years was made on the ground of a rise in prices or not It is therefore proposed to restore the provision in the Bill as originally introduced.

Clause 22 (Section 40).—Instead of having regard to the prices during the ten years preceding the date of decree, regard will hereafter be had to the prices during the ten years preceding the date of institution of the suit for commutation. This avoids uncertainty.

If the Collector decides to commute the rent, his decision will be final. Another material alteration made by this clause is the substitution of the words 'The commutation shall take effect from the beginning of the revenue year next after the decree', in lieu of the provision of the existing Act giving power to the Collector to fix the time for which the commutation is to take effect. This alteration is made with a view to prevent the Collector from giving retrospective effect to his decree.

Clause 23 (Section 42).—It is just and reasonable that parties should go to the Collector only when there is a dispute as to increase or reduction of rent and not where there is a specific agreement between the parties or where the rent is fixed with reference to area.

Clause 24 (Section 43).—See the remarks under Clause 10 ante.

Clause 25 (Section 44).—The reference to procedure in sub-section (1) has been omitted, with the result that the ordinary procedure will apply.

Clause 26 (Section 45).—The section as worded would include cases of unlawful occupation of land in a holding or in the occupation of a ryot. The wording makes it also doubtful whether damages can also be recovered as 'rent' and if the remedies provided by the Act for recovery of rent are applicable. The section as now drafted rectifies these defects.

Clause 27 (Section 46).—The provision in section 188 that the acquisition of occupancy rights should not be prevented or limited by a contract whether made before or after the passing of the Act has been incorporated here as the more appropriate place—sub-clause (a) (b). The only other important change made is effected by sub-clause (ii) which adds a provision [New sub-section (4)] that occupancy right conferred under the section shall take effect from the date of application and tender. The reasonableness of the provision is self-evident. The other changes here are merely consequential.

Clause 28 (Section 50).—A specific provision has been made to the effect that the ryot is entitled to demand a single patta in respect of all the lands held by him in a single village. A similar right has also been given to the ryot in respect of the trees held by him in a single village independently of the land on which they stand.

Clause 29 (Section 51), Sub-clause (i).—This is consequential on the inclusion within the scope of the Act of tree pattas.

Sub-clause (ii).—Pasturage fees and fishery rents are included in the definition of rent and 'forest fees' have also been added by the amendment now made and though these are all recoverable by summary process under section 77, they are not mentioned here. It is necessary that all sums that are recoverable by summary process should appear in the patta.

Clause 30 (Section 53).—Section 53 is out of place here. Its proper place is in Chapter VI and it is taken there—vide new sections 77-A and 77-B inserted by Clause 46.

Clause 31 (Section 54), Sub-clause (1).—Sub-section (2) of section 54 is omitted as section 192 as now amended would apply to applications Provision for the deposit of costs of service may also be better dealt with by means of rules.

Sub-clause (2).—As under section 56, a landholder has to file a suit to enforce acceptance of patta after the ryot fails to accept the patta for a period of one month after tender, it is necessary that the landholder should forthwith be informed of the exact date of tender.

Clause 32 (Section 57).—The meaning has been made clear.

Clause 33 (Section 61).—The addition of the words 'Subject to the provisions of this Act' is made to save provisions contained in section 66, etc. 'arrear' has been altered into 'arrear of rent'.

Clause 34 (Section 62).—It is considered necessary and expedient that there should be some sort of authentication of the authority of the agent. New sub-section (3) provides for this.

Clause 35 (Section 65).—It is desirable that the recovery of the compensation referred to in section 65 should be by means of an application and not by means of a suit. The other changes are merely drafting changes.

Clause 36 (Section 66.)—The cost of transport to the landholder's granary is to be borne by him, where the distance from the threshing floor to the granary exceeds three miles.

Clause 37 (Section 67).—This brings section 67 into accord with section 62 as amended by Clause 34.

Clause 38 (Section 68).—Sub-clause (i) is self-explanatory.

Sub-clause (ii).—Sub-section (5) has been omitted as the general provisions made with regard to applications cover the case.

Clause 39 (Section 69). Sub-clause (i).—This is to make it clear that deposit may be ordered without notice to the other party if the officer concerned is satisfied on a perusal of the application that the right to make the deposit exists

Sub-clause (ii).—This is consequential on Sub-clause (i).

Clause 40 (Section 70).—It is desirable that the notices required by existing sub-sections (1) and (2) of section 70 should issue simultaneously and hence the alterations made in the new section.

Clause 41 (Section 71).—It is obviously inexpedient that payment to the landholder should be made immediately.

Clause 42 (Section 73).—It has been made obligatory on the ryot to give a definite notice of at least ten days as regards the day of harvesting, etc.

Provision has also been made for all the cases which may arise and the exact procedure to be adopted on the day fixed for the harvest has been laid down.

Clause 43 (Section 74).—It is considered desirable that provision should be made for the two additional cases referred to in Sub-clause (i). Sub-clause (ii) makes a change consequential on sub-clause (i).

Clause 44 (Section 75).—The procedure has been simplified and the section redrafted in clearer terms.

Clause 45 (Section 77).—The word 'attachment' has been introduced to make it clear that the sale here is different from the right which the landholder has under the provisions of the Transfer of Property Act to bring the property to sale to enforce the charge created by this Act. Some of the provisions occurring in present section 77 are better put as separate sections—see new sections 77-D and 77-F, inserted by Clause 46.

Clause 46 (New Sections 77-A to 77-F).—Sub-sections (1) and (2) of section 53 which were omitted in Chapter IV are incorporated here as sections 77-A and 77-B. It has however been provided in section 77-A that no recourse should be had to distraint of movable property until a reasonable interval, fifteen days, has elapsed after the tender of patta. New section 77-C gives the ryot a right to insist on the maintenance of the status quo pending final determination of the amount to be paid by him as rent in the suit.

When a landholder has resorted to court and obtained a decree he should not be allowed to distrain movable property in respect of the arrear for which he sued and obtained a decree. Hence the insertion of section 77-E.

The insertion of new sections 77-D and 77-F is explained in the note on Clause 45.

Clause 47 (Section 79).—Sub-clause (i) is self-explanatory.

Sub-clause (ii).—Section 79 (2), as it stands, seems to require that a copy of the demand and of the list of property should be served on or delivered to the cultivator even in cases where the property attached is not the 'crop'. It is proposed to remove this anomaly.

Clause 48 (Section 81).—The words omitted serve no useful purpose. The addition of the words 'with interest' is self-explanatory.

Clause 49 (Section 91).—There is some doubt as to the particular article of the Limitation Act which is applicable to the suits mentioned in this section. Different articles would seem to be applicable in different cases. It is considered desirable to prescribe a uniform period of one year in all cases.

Clause 50 (Section 94).—It is considered that the fee for the service of notice may better be prescribed by rules. Hence, the omission of section 94.

Clause 51 (Section 95), Sub-clause (i).—This is consequential on the omission of section 94 by clause 50.

Sub-clause (ii).—This makes the intention clear.

Sub-clause (iii).—The new sub-section gives power to the sale officer to adjourn the sale. The lack of this power has been found inconvenient in practice. Compare Order XXI, Rule 69 of the Civil Procedure Code, 1908.

Clause 52 (Section 101).—Section 101, strictly construed, means that, if in the opinion of the sale officer the price offered is not fair, he must (if a market is held at or near the place of sale), postpone the sale till the next market day without an application from the parties and even against their will. There is nothing to show that this was intended by the legislature nor is there a parallel either in the Bengal Tenancy Act (section 151) or in the North-West Provinces Tenancy Act (section 134). It is proposed to make it clear that it is not intended to empower a sale officer to postpone a sale except upon the request of one or more of the persons interested.

Clause 53 (Section 102).—In cases like those falling under section 102 a summary remedy is the proper one and not a suit attendant with expense and delay. Hence this amendment.

Clause 54 (Section 104), Sub-clause (i).—Sub-section (1) of section 104 is inconsistent with section 92 (2) which lays down that if no application for sale is made in the manner prescribed, the distraint shall cease to be in force; if the distraint ceases, there can be no sale. It is proposed to remove this inconsistency.

Sub-clause (ii).—'may' in the sub-section has really the effect of 'shall'. The amendment makes the intention clear.

Clause 55 (Section 106).—This is self-explanatory.

Clause 56 (Section 112), Sub-clause (i) (a).—The first substitution effects a verbal improvement and the second makes it clear that the notice must reach the Collector within the time specified.

Sub-clause (i) (b).—Suits for acceptance of pattas or determination of rent may not conclude before the expiry of the time fixed in section 112. Hence this amendment.

Sub-clause (ii).—It is proposed to prescribe the same mode of service for the notice under section 112 as for the demand under section 78. There is no object in making a distinction between the two cases.

Clause 57 (Section 114).—The words 'the amount specified in the notice under section 112' are inserted in order that interest and costs, if any, may also be included. The language of the latter part of the section has been made clear.

Clause 58 (Section 116).—This makes the intention clear.

Clause 59 (Section 117).—The amendment is made for the reason stated in the note on Clause 51 sub-clause (iii).

Clause 60 (Section 120).—The term 'distress' is not accurate and hence it is omitted. A uniform expression, viz., 'the expenses and the costs of the sale' is proposed to be used throughout the Act.

Clause 61 (New Section 120-A).—Sub-section (1) of new section 120-A brings section 130 of the present Act after section 120 as the appropriate place for it. It is but right that a landholder purchasing a holding should be allowed to set off the purchase money against the rent due to him and this is done by sub-section (2) of the new section.

Clause 62 (Section 122), Sub-clause (i).—Please see the note under Clause 60.

Sub-clause (ii).—The addition made by this sub-clause is by way of caution.

Clause 63 (Section 123).—Sub-clause (i) calls for no remarks. The reason for sub-clause (ii) is the same as that given for clause 58.

Clause 64 (Section 124).—New section 131-A inserted by Clause 69, provides for setting aside the sale of a holding on the ground of fraud or material irregularity. The necessity for referring to section 131-A in sub-section (2) of section 124 is obvious.

Clause 65 (Section 125).—It has been made clear that the purchaser takes the holding free from any charge for rent which had accrued due prior to the date of the sale.

Clause 66 (Section 127).—Section 106 (1) authorizes the deduction from the sale-proceeds of movable property of one anna in the rupee on account of the expenses and costs of sale and the sum deducted is credited to Government; no similar provision has been made in section 127 in respect of the sale-proceeds of immovable property. Hence the first of the amendments. The others do not call for any special remarks.

Clause 67 (Section 130).—Vide remarks on Clause 61.

Clause 68 (Section 131), Sub-clause (i).—The period of limitation is provided in the Schedule and hence it has been omitted here.

Sub-clause (ii).—As section 315 of the Old Civil Procedure Code (Order XXI, Rule 93 of the present Civil Procedure Code) does not apply here, the change is necessary.

Sub-clause (iii).—It is undesirable that a person should be allowed relief under section 131-A simultaneously with that allowed by this section. The provision made is on the lines of Order XXI, Rule 89 (2), of the present Civil Procedure Code.

Clause 69 (New Section 131-A).—There is no provision in the existing Act for setting aside the sale of a holding for arrears of rent, on the ground of fraud or material irregularity. Section 311 of the old Civil Procedure Code, (Order XXI, Rule 90 of the new Code), is not one of the sections declared inapplicable to proceedings under the Estates Land Act (vide section 192), but the provision in the Civil Procedure Code applies to proceedings of a judicial character, that is to say, to sales of holdings in execution of decrees for arrears of rent but not to sales effected in exercise of the powers of recovery by summary process. Instances have occurred where the absence of such a provision has caused hardship, and it is proposed to remedy the defect.

Clause 70 (Section 134).—The amendment is meant to enable the landholder to recover by distraint and sale of movable property the rent of lankas which are not declared to be 'ryoti' by the District Collector.

Clause 71 (Heading of Chapter VII).—This is consequential on the insertion of new section 134-B by clause 72. That section relates to the subject of restraining landholders from increasing the ayacut and not to 'repairs' of irrigation works.

Clause 72 (New Sections 134-A and 134-B).—New Section 134-A.—Irrigation works have been classified into major and minor works according as the ayacut is 200 acres or more or is less than 200 acres. Applications in respect of major works alone will hereafter be heard and disposed of by the District Collector; other applications will be disposed of by the Divisional Officer.

New Section 134-B.—It is considered desirable to give ryots a remedy where the landholder increases the ayacut under an irrigation work without sufficient justification. The District Collector or the Divisional officer will have power, on the application of an aggrieved ryot, to restrain the landholder from increasing the ayacut where such increase prejudices the irrigation of the lands already under irrigation. The application is to be brought within three years from the commencement of the increased irrigation—vide the entry relating to section 134 B in Part B of the Schedule inserted by Clause 127.

Clause 73 (Section 135)—The material changes are—

(a) Provision has been made for any ryot or ryots irrespective of the extent of his or their holding or the amount of rent paid by him or them, applying for an order for the repair of an irrigation work after depositing such security, not exceeding Rs. 200, as may be demanded.

(b) The applicant is only required to state the facts on which he bases his claim. He is not required to state the nature of the repairs deemed necessary, etc.

(c) The latter part of the section relating to the hearing of the application has been taken to the next section as the more appropriate place for the same.

The following minor changes have also been made:—

(a) The word 'irrigated' before the word 'land' has been omitted as unnecessary.

(b) For the words 'out of repair' the words 'in such a state of disrepair' have been substituted to render the wording of this section consistent with that of section 137.

Clause 74 (Section 136).—The latter part of the Explanation to new section 136 forms the last portion of the first paragraph of existing section 137. The present section is the proper place for the explanation of 'disrepair'. It is considered necessary to expand the meaning of the expression by the inclusion of disrepair owing to encroachment on, or contraction of, the tank bed and to include also within the meaning of 'repair' the acquisition of land which originally formed part of the bed when such acquisition is necessary.

Clause 75 (Section 137).—Please see the note on clause 73, which substitutes new section 135. New sub-section (1) provides for the payment out of the deposit, if any, made under section 135, of the landholder's costs, if the applicants do not make out their case. Provision has also been made for the forfeiture of the balance, if any, of the deposit, if the application is found to be frivolous.

New sub-section (2) corresponds to the first paragraph of present section 137 with some consequential and drafting changes. In the last paragraph of this sub-section the words 'had been otherwise transferred from such landholder' have been omitted to prevent landholders from escaping liability to repair by transferring the liability to others The words 'unless he is satisfied that it is to the advantage of both the landholder and the ryots that the work should be repaired' have been omitted as unnecessary, as the District Collector has to take into consideration the relative advantages and disadvantages of the landholder and the ryot before issuing an order for repair. With regard to dasabandam inams, the obligation to repair has been cast on the zamindar and he has been given a right of recourse against the inamdar.

Clause 76 (Sections 139 and 140).—The procedure laid down in the present Act for the recovery of the costs of repair where the landholder refuses to pay them is very circuitous. It involves recovery from the ryots who have not joined in the execution of repairs in the first instance and these ryots recouping themselves by withholding payment to the landholder of the difference between the wet and dry rates. This circuitous procedure has been abolished. Provision has been made for the recovery of the amount due, in all cases, from the landholder direct The landholder has been enabled to pay the amount in instalments together with interest at such rate as may be fixed by the officer concerned.

Provision has been made in new section 140 for the amount payable to each of the ryots being specified in the order directing the landholder to pay the costs of repair.

Clause 77 (Section 141).—The omission of section 141 by this clause is consequential on the changes made by the previous clause.

Clause 78 (New Section 141-A), First paragraph.—It is doubtful if the general provisions of this chapter will apply to cases where an irrigation work serves different estates. The first paragraph of the new section proposed makes the matter clear. Provision has been made for the apportionment of the costs according to custom or agreement, or, in the absence of any custom or agreement, according to the extent of the ayacuts or the amount of water taken.

Second paragraph—A landholder repairing an irrigation work has been enabled to levy a contribution from another landholder who also benefits by such repair. The contribution levied is to be in proportion to the benefit conferred.

Clause 79 (Section 142).—The provision for appeal to the Board of Revenue is taken to the Schedule in conformity with the general scheme of the Bill. It has been made clear that the prohibition in section 142 does not apply to disputes between landholders inter se under new section 141-A inserted by Clause 78.

Clause 80 (Heading of Chapter VIII).—'Illegal exactions' and not 'Illegal cesses' is the correct heading for Chapter VIII.

Clauses 81 and 82 (Sections 143 and 144).—The words 'take, receive or' and 'taken, received or' have been introduced in sections 143 and 144 respectively to prevent receipt of even voluntary payments. This avoids enquiries into pleas that a particular payment made by a ryot was voluntary and will enable the ryots to get back any payments made by them over and above the rent.

Clauses 83 and 84 (Sections 145 and 146).—Sections 145 and 146 have been recast more clearly. As section 146 is worded, it is not clear whether the conditions required by section 145 (1) apply to the transfer of a holding or part of a holding under a decree or order of a court, etc., or by sale under any provision of law. It is considered that those conditions should not apply to such cases. Similarly where a subdivision is made in the course of a survey and the preparation of a record-of-rights or where the subdivision is necessary for differentiating different kinds of land, the restrictions imposed by section 145 (1) have been considered unnecessary. It is necessary to include also the case of transfer by succession. Provision for joint registry in the case of a transfer of a portion of a holding in the name of the transferor and transferee is considered reasonable. In view of the fact that many transfers of holdings or of portions of holdings which have not been recognized by the landholder come to the notice of the Revenue Court trying rent suits, etc., it is considered desirable to provide that in such cases, the Revenue Court may embody in its decree a declaration regarding such transfer upon production of which declaration the landholder would be bound to recognize the transfer.

Clause 85 (Section 149).—It is considered desirable that notice of relinquishment should be given in writing.

Clause 86 (Section 151).—Sub-section (1) which corresponds to the existing section is better recast having regard to the intention. Sub-section (2) provides for the Collector's awarding compensation or making an order for the repair of the damage done, in the suit for ejectment itself.

Clause 87 (Section 153).—In view of the long lapse of time since the passing of the Act the last paragraph of section 153 is not likely to be of use except to harass ryots. It apparently applies to leases for a term. A lease from year to year would cease only on notice to quit. There are very few cases of a term and assuming that the term was four years given just before the Act of 1908, it would have expired in July 1912 and the right of suit would have been barred unless there have been acknowledgments in writing. It is proposed not to give relief in the case of tenancies from year to year. Hence the omission of the last paragraph.

Clause 88 (Section 157).—The word 'ryot' is used in all the sections to which section 157 refers.

Clause 89 (Section 160).—Section 160 provides a suit before the Collector by a tenant of private land to set aside the warrant of eviction. Section 161 provides a civil suit to set aside the eviction proceedings after possession has been delivered. Two suits in respect of the same matter will tend to prolong the eviction proceedings unduly and are unnecessary. The suit provided in section 161 is sufficient for a thorough sifting of the entire proceedings and it is therefore proposed to replace the other suit by an application to the Collector.

Clause 90 (Section 163), sub-clause (i).—New clause (b) provides a period of limitation for suits under section 163. It is considered desirable to provide for this in the Act itself.

Sub-clause (ii).—New sub-section (2) permits the assessment of the mesne profits and damages for unauthorized occupation in the suit brought under sub-section (1) itself, and thus removes the necessity for instituting separate proceedings for the purpose.

Clause 91 (Section 164), sub-clause (1) (i).—It is undesirable to direct a survey of a portion of an estate which is less than a village.

Sub-clause (1) (ii).—This makes a change consequential upon the repeal and re-enactment of the Survey and Boundaries Act, 1897, by the Survey and Boundaries Act, 1923.

Sub-clause (2).—A resurvey for the preparation of a record-of-rights except to the extent necessary is obviously uncalled for.

Clause 92 (Section 166), Sub-clause (i).—It is desirable that the time allowed for making an application for settlement of rents should not be rigidly limited to two months in all cases. Power has accordingly been given to Government to fix the time which should be allowed in particular cases. In no case however will the period allowed be less than two months.

Sub-clause (ii) (a) is consequential on sub-clause (i).

Sub-clause (ii) (b) provides that the separate publication of the record-of-rights should be of a portion of an estate which portion consists of one or more entire villages.

Clause 93 (Section 168), Sub-clause (i) makes a change consequential on the insertion of new sub-section (2-A) in section 166. Power has been given to the Government to extend the time for the submission of applications for settlement of rent. The lack of this power has given rise to considerable inconvenience and hardship in practice.

Sub-clause (ii).—This is consequential on sub-clause (i) and makes the meaning clear.

Clause 94 (Section 170).—It has been made clear that the confirming authority has power to modify any order passed by the Revenue Officer on an objection made under section 169.

Clause 95 (Section 171).—In view of the amendment made by clause 94 which gives power to the confirming authority to modify any order passed by a Revenue Officer, the starting point of limitation has been altered from the date of the order under section 169 to the date of the final republication of the record-of-rights. It has been made clear that the appeal lies against the order as modified by the confirming authority. Two months is considered to be too short for filing the appeal and the period has therefore been extended to three months.

Clause 96 (Section 172).—The only change consists in the addition of the Explanation the need for which is obvious.

Clause 97 (Section 173), Sub-clause (i).—The words omitted become unnecessary by reason of new section 209, sub-section (1).

Sub-clause (ii).—It is not considered desirable to specify in detail the powers of the court as sub-section (4) does and hence its omission.

Sub-clause (iii).—There is no need to refer to 'order' in addition to 'decree'. It is only the decree that is finally passed which should be communicated Hence the redraft of sub-section (5) [renumbered as sub-section (4)].

Clause 98 (Section 174).—The changes made are consequential on those made in Clause 97.

Clause 99 (Section 175).—The provision for the correction of 'bona fide' mistakes in orders under section 168 or section 169 has been done away with Power has however been given to the Revenue Divisional Officer to correct clerical or arithmetical mistakes in a record-of-rights without limit as to time

Clause 100 (Section 176).—The provision made in section 176 is really subject not only to section 173 but also to sections 171, 172, 174 and 175 Hence the re-draft.

Clause 101 (Section 177), Sub-clause (1).—The year from which the revised rent is to take effect has been clearly specified

Sub-clause (2).—The first proviso implements the provisions made in the previous clauses of the Bill, viz, that villages should be dealt with as a whole. The second proviso is added ex abundante cautela

Clause 102 (Section 179).—This affects a verbal improvement

Clause 103 (Section 180).—As the whole cost of the survey, the preparation of the record-of-rights and the settlement of rents has to be apportioned, the opening words of the section have been omitted.

The expression "expenses incurred by the Government" may be interpreted to mean expenses actually incurred by Government out of their own funds and hence the omission of the words "by the Government". The words "carrying out the provisions of the Chapter" have been altered into "carrying out any of the provisions of this Chapter".

Clause 104 (Section 181).—The main paragraph of the section seems unnecessary as the sections referred to do not apply to private land The proviso in a better form is retained by way of caution.

Clause 105 (Section 183).—It is not desirable that Revenue Courts should refuse to take into account decrees passed by Civil Courts on the ground that they were obtained by fraud or collusion. In such a case the proper course will be to take steps in the Civil Court itself for obtaining a declaration that the previous decree passed by it was obtained by fraud or collusion. Hence the omission proposed by the first part of this clause. The omission of the expression "of the nature described in section 185" by the latter part of this clause is due to the omission of section 185 by Clause 106.

Clause 106 (Section 185).—The proviso to section 185 has gone into the definition of private land—Clause 2 (7). The presumption laid down in section 185 has been incorporated in section 28—Clause 12. The rest of the section, as regards the interpretation of which there have been conflicting decisions, does not seem to be necessary and is therefore omitted.

Clause 107 (Section 186).—A certificate from the District Collector instead of from the Collector has been made requisite and it has been made final. The function of the Civil Court will hereafter be limited to the determination of the amount of compensation. Provision has been made for the acquisition of land in the occupation of an inamdar in the estate. The purposes for which the land may be acquired have been expanded with reference to the amendment made by Clause 11 of the Bill.

Clause 108 (Section 187).—Section 11 is general and applies both to occupancy and non-occupancy ryots. It is not intended that a non-occupancy ryot should be restrained by contract from using the land in the manner provided by section 11. Otherwise it would lead to the anomaly that though a non-occupancy ryot may be bound by a contract restraining the use of the land as provided by section 11, he cannot be ejected unless by the user the land is rendered unfit for the purposes of the tenancy [section 153 (a)]. To avoid this anomaly the word 'ryot' is used. This will cover both 'occupancy' and 'non-occupancy' ryots.

Clause 109 (Section 188).—As it has been made clear in section 46 [vide Clause 27 (i) (b)] that the right to acquire occupancy rights conferred by that section may be exercised notwithstanding any contract to the contrary, this section is considered unnecessary.

Clause 110 (Section 189).—Sub-section (3) of section 189 makes the decisions of revenue courts on matters falling within their jurisdiction binding on Civil Courts. There is however no provision making the decisions of Civil Courts on matters falling within their jurisdiction binding on revenue courts. This defect is remedied by new sub-section (4).

Clause 111 (Section 190)—Sub-clause (1).—Sub-section (2) of section 190 is omitted in view of the general provision made in section 192.

Sub-clause (2).—It is considered desirable to give a right of second appeal to the Board in the additional cases mentioned.

Clause 112 (Section 191).—The words omitted are rendered unnecessary by the Amendment of the Indian Limitation Act, 1908, made by Act X of 1922.

Clause 113 (Section 192)—New sub-sections (1) and (2).—The scheme of the Act as it stands at present is to apply the Civil Procedure Code excepting certain specified sections and subject to certain specified modifications to suits, etc., under the Act. This principle is retained but it is considered that the exceptions and modifications specified are too many for all of them to be retained in the Act. It is considered enough if the more important of them are retained in the Act and any others that may be found necessary are left to be provided for by rules under the Act. The section is recast accordingly. Section 192 has been made applicable to applications also.

For new sub-sections (3), (4) and (5), vide remarks under Clause 115.

For new sub-sections (6) and (7), vide remarks under clause 117.

Clause 114 (Section 193).—It is desirable that provision is made for the collective institution of suits for commutation of rent also. As enhancement or reduction of rent is now to be sought by means of applications, the other changes here are necessary. Please see also the remarks under Clause 117.

Clause 115 (Sections 194, 195 and 196).—Sections 194 and 195 are really modifications of the provision under section 192 and would better form provisos to that section Hence they are incorporated in that section as sub-sections (3) and (4) and sub-section (5) respectively.

Section 196 in effect modifies the rigour of sections 194 and 195 and is therefore incorporated in sub-sections (3) and (5) of section 192 which correspond to sections 194 and 195 respectively.

Clause 116 (Section 197).—Only consequential changes are made here

Clause 117 (Sections 198 and 199).—Section 198 has been incorporated as the second proviso to section 193 (1) as the more appropriate place—vide Clause 114.

Section 199 is also a modification of the procedure laid down in the Civil Procedure Code and is incorporated in section 192 as sub-sections (6) and (7).

Clause 118 (Section 200).—Only consequential changes are made here

Clause 119 (Section 201).—The redraft of section 201 is to make the intention clear, viz., that while a revenue court which passed an order has the power to execute it, it cannot transfer the order for execution to any other revenue court, but only to a civil court.

Clause 120 (Section 202).—There is power under section 192 to make rules regarding the same matter as that with which this section deals. The Local Government has also power under section 215 to frame rules. Again, it has power under section 5 (1), of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, to limit the operation of any of the provisions of the Civil Procedure Code in their application to the revenue courts. With all these various provisions, this section seems superfluous and is consequently omitted.

Clause 121 (Section 203).—The reference is to the corresponding provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908.

Clause 122 (Section 209).—It is considered desirable to add a provision defining the local limits within which the cause of action shall be deemed to have arisen in respect of proceedings in civil courts on the lines of the provision in sub-section (1) of existing section 209. Existing sub-section (1) has been retained with some modifications as sub-section (2). The amendment follows section 144 of the Bengal Tenancy Act.

Clause 123 (Section 210).—Sub-section (2) has now spent itself. Hence its omission.

Clause 124 (section 211).—Sections 19 and 20 of the Limitation Act provide for an extension of the period of limitation where there is acknowledgment of the liability and where there is payment of interest or of part of the principal respectively. It is considered desirable to make those sections applicable to proceedings under the Act. Sections 19 and 20 have not therefore been excluded. The section has been redrafted with reference to this and the repeal and re-enactment of the Limitation Act of 1877 in 1908.

Clause 125 (Section 212).—The amendment of clauses (b) and (d) calls for no remarks. It is considered necessary to penalize obstruction to entry or measurement under section 43 (now section 17-A) and this is done by the addition of clause (e).

Clause 126 (Section 215).—Sub-clauses (i) and (v).—Clause (11) has been omitted and the general power to make rules has been placed in the forefront of section 215. Clause (5) of section 215 has been amended so as to bring it into accord with new section 3 (18) (a) and new section 20. The other changes call for no remarks.

Clause 127 (Schedule).—The changes made are mostly consequential and drafting ones.
